

Graham's Reflection

Greetings Mary Burnett Presbytery, and God's richest blessings to you all.

As I type this message, it is the middle of Holy Week. We have just celebrated Palm Sunday, and we are in that period of mixed emotions that takes us from the celebration of Jesus' entry into Jerusalem, through the events of his betrayal, brutal torture and sacrificial death, to the joy of Easter morning.

For most ministers this week is the most exhausting of the year; it is not just the personal emotion of reliving the rollercoaster effect of the events of that first Easter, but the time and pressure of preparing so many services and events (Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, and Easter Sunday with possible Dawn services). Add a couple of congregations together into a cluster and it makes for a busy and tiring week. It is quite understandable for ministers and congregations to expend all this energy, then fall into a tired heap as they look forward to slipping back into 'normal' church life.

We know that the disciples hid away after the events of Easter, waiting for the promised gift of the Holy Spirit to empower them for the task ahead. Likewise it seems, after Easter, without realising it, we also seem to go into a holding pattern as we start preparing for Pentecost.

How quickly we come down from the spiritual high of Easter. But the fact is that Easter is not something that occurs once a year; an annual event we can cross off our calendar. Easter isn't just a day, or a celebration – it is a way of life. Easter – the resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ is played out in our lives every day, because we have been forever transformed. Easter is knowing that because we have been joined by Baptism to the Risen One, Jesus the Christ, we participate in his new reality and are, indeed, new creatures. We now play a significant and constantly active part in God's plan to bring His Kingdom to completion on Earth.

Well known Author and Theologian N.T Wright declares, “Jesus's resurrection is the beginning of God's new project not to snatch people away from earth to heaven but to colonize earth with the life of heaven.” (“Surprised by Hope: Rethinking Heaven, the Resurrection, and the Mission of the Church”)

Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! In his great mercy he has given us new birth into a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead (5 Peter 5:7).

Now is not the time to take our ‘foot off the peddle’ to coin another phrase. Easter is a time for new beginnings, and we need to look to see where God is at work doing these new things. In doing so we will also draw renewed strength and energy from being drawn into the current and future plans of God, rather than seeking the comfort of the past.

God Bless, Pastor Graham Huth

Paassangdiens (Easter Song)

After an amazing Kerssangdiens (Carols) Service at the beginning of Avent. Buderim Uniting Church was blessed to host Paassangdiens (Easter Song) at the beginning of Lent. Rev Liena Hoffman led us as we journeyed through the Easter story.

The music was wonderful with a wide array of musicians and singers sharing their talents with those who came along.

It was an evening filled with song in both Afrikaans and English and was followed afterwards with some wonderful food.

Planning is already underway for what will be the second annual Kerssangdiens service.

QUEENSLAND SYNOD

Moderator
Rev Andrew Gunton

Dear Friends in Christ,

I am writing to inform the Synod of the recent changes for Mooloolaba Christian Church (MCC) and the Mary Burnett Presbytery.

On the 18th of March the Mary Burnett Presbytery came together in a prayerful and careful meeting and resolved to formally dissolve the MCC congregation. This decision came at the end of a process over many months and in response to a mutual agreement with the congregation that it was not possible to maintain appropriate relationship and that separating would be the best way forward. Prayers were said for and by the congregation.

Although it was a challenging process, I give thanks that it was also one of peacemaking.

Please join with me in praying for the former members of the congregation and the members of the Mary Burnett Presbytery. Let us pray for clarity and truth, forgiveness and hope in this and all other circumstances.

Peace be with you

Easter

Easter Sunday is the high point of the Christian Church year. We celebrate the Resurrection - the demonstration of God's power and authority over life and death in the raising of Jesus to new life following his crucifixion and death by the Roman Occupation Army in Israel around 33 Common Era (AD). Christians believe God sent the Son to the world in Jesus of Nazareth to reveal God's true nature and to call the people of Israel and the whole world back to living God's way of justice and peace for all. Through believing in Jesus as Son of God and following his teaching, we are reconnected with God and offered Eternal Life in God's kingdom.

Sadly, the people of his time misunderstood Jesus' mission and resented his ministry. The priests and religious authorities in Jerusalem resented his challenge to their interpretations of the Scriptures and the rituals and laws developed over at least 1000 years before his time. They were jealous of his popularity and capacity to heal, and offended by his freely forgiving people in God's name. The Roman authorities, in soldiers and the consul, Pilate, were afraid of Jesus' power and thought he might stir the people to rebellion against Rome. The story is told in each of the books of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John in the Bible. Despite the fears and jealousies of humans that killed Jesus, God's power overcame that death and showed humans Eternal Life with God is God's intention for all.

We find the Resurrection a mystery – a miracle beyond our full understanding – for this new life of Jesus seemed both normal physical (his friends could see and touch him and he could eat) but also beyond the physical for he could appear in locked rooms and disappear from sight at will. But his disciples saw and believed in him as God's Son and have taught countless others through the past 2000 years to believe in him and trust his revelation of God's will for us. Come and hear the story at churches this Good Friday and Easter Sunday.

Happy Easter all.

Rev Dr Elizabeth Nolan

A place for all of us: History of Alex Park

The Presbyterian Young People's Fellowship Association's first Easter Camp at Alexandra Hostel was in 1933.

Back then, Alexandra Headlands was a secluded place and much harder to travel too than now. But it was also seen as a wonderful place where young people could come together at Easter and remember the sacrifice of Jesus.

Between 1933 and 1942 the site was used for Easter camps and grew in popularity. During this time there had been a number of attempts to sell the hostel boarding house which occupied the land but the price was never right for the owner (and too much for the Church).

Then along came World War II, the boarding house was taken over by the Australian Army and Easter Camps ceased 1942-44.

But the visionaries were not finished with Alex Park and by the summer of 1945 Queensland Presbyterian Camps purchased Alexandra Hostel at a reduced cost. They began setting up the camp home for the Young People's Fellowship Association.

They quickly developed concept plans for how they would use the 173 acres of land as a training centre for youth workers, youth leaders, organised camps, a holiday centre and a rest haven for people needing a place away.

Ann Street Group -Christmas 1949

Those early days of Alex Park were largely thanks to the foresight of Norman Nelson. Many of the plaques at Alex Park today credit Mr Nelson who influenced the Church to buy the site as a destination for Easter campers. Later in his life, he was to pen a book called To Help Them Find Their Feet about Alexandra Park.

Their own place

The work teams prepared the house for the next Easter Camp and the opening was held the night before Good Friday, April 19, 1946. It hosted 200 campers who were finally in "their own home".

Alex Park's current manager Danny Salzke says the original mandate was to have a place where young people could come together for both holiday and teaching camps, as well as conferences.

But getting Alexandra Park Hostel ready for Easter Camp 1946 was not easy. In Danny's words: "The first task was cleaning up... and a mighty task it was. Burning stacks of rubbish and undoing blacked out windows".

"Coming to Alexandra Park during the 30s and 40s was very different," he says. "I have old pictures of just a dirt sand track and a very old, small surf club-type building. It wasn't the popular tourist destination we see today. There were only a few houses."

Alex Park also became a home for people in the church who wanted somewhere to go for sanctuary, peace and quiet, or to connect with family. "There are still generations of people alive who had their youth camp experience at Alex Park; they might have made lasting friendships or even met future spouses," Danny says.

Working parties were constantly held for things like repairs on the original hostel, planting trees for the surrounding regenerated rainforest and building the outdoor chapel (located on a different part of the property today), which featured a stone Communion table and altar.

Danny says: "I recently read where working bees of young people in the church were brought in to get that bush chapel area ready. They built these stone artefacts."

Eventually, it was decided that upkeep of the hostel building was becoming difficult and that it no longer served all the needs of the church, such as its formal member conferences.

In 1988, a new build, the biggest the site had seen, was planned and it would need more than a few youth group working bees to complete! On what was the second land sale of the Alexandra Park site, the Presbyterian Church let go of a chunk of the property to fund this historic development. The new facility comprised two accommodation blocks, a main building with offices, an auditorium, kitchen and a dining room. Danny says that for a church-owned facility to be located amid a rainforest next to the coast, reflects the vision of Alex Park's forebears. "What has always served young people, even today, is a shared experience - an outdoor experience," he says.

"Because back in the day, that's all Alex Park was - the outdoors with a building on it.

"It's the people who shared it that made it special.

"In our modern world that means more than television and devices.

"Alex Park today still offers an escape with nature and all its beauty, but with all of today's comforts to make connecting and growing possible."
